Practicalities

- Some of you signed up with your personal email for PayPal but would prefer to receive newsletters to your work address. You can easily change this here: <https://www.jiscmail.ac.uk/help/subscribers/faq.html> If you have received this to both personal and work email, drop me a line and I will remove one of your subscribed emails.
- You can (ideally) email news directly to me, or post to our social media feeds or hashtag #BACLS.
- Please send me a short description of the item and a web link. This is to ensure that the item can be posted easily on social media: please don't send PDFs/images/word documents.
- For example - Talk on X author at Y venue (Date) : [Link to booking] or New book on Y Writer by X Author : [Link to Page on Publisher's Website]
- If it fits within the 140 character limit of Twitter, do feel free to include your handle for enquiries.
- I am happy to post CFP/event notifications twice: once when the event is announced and a week before abstracts are due/the event commences.

It is my intention to send this newsletter out fortnightly during term time. I welcome any feedback to improve the way we communicate with our members.

Please feed me all your news: don't be shy! Get in touch and we'll do all that deeply awkward showing-off on your behalf.

Best,
Caroline
